Dear Mr. McRoy:

Thank you for your letter regarding the Corps of Engineers Safety requirements.

The CHCM Program meets Government and Industry Standards for Hazard Control situations both technical and administrative. The program was established in 1976 and places major emphases on a national recognized rigorous examination that covers both technical and administrative aspects of Hazard Control Management and in most safety situations is equal or superior to the CSP certification requirements.

If you need additional information, please get back to me.

Sincerely,

Harold M. Gordon, CHCM
Executive Director
